The Healthy Relationship Wheel provides aspects of what a healthy relationship would look like. One based on respect, trust, and nonviolence. For instance, instead of using coercion and threats, a partner would resolve conflicts or disagreements based on negotiation and fairness.

Non-Threatening Behavior
- Talking and acting so your partner feels safe and comfortable expressing themselves and doing things
- Listening non-judgmentally: being emotionally affirming and understanding, valuing opinions or personal beliefs, respecting bodily autonomy and consent

Respect
- Seeking mutually satisfying resolutions to conflict, accepting change, being willing to compromise
- Making money decisions together, making sure both partners benefit from financial arrangements
- Shared Parenting responsibilities: being a positive non-violent role model, making family planning decisions collaboratively
- Shared Responsibility: mutually agreeing on a fair distribution of work, making family decisions together
- Making money decisions together, making sure both partners benefit from financial arrangements
- Making family decisions collaboratively
- Talking and acting so your partner feels safe and comfortable expressing themselves and doing things
- Listening non-judgmentally: being emotionally affirming and understanding, valuing opinions or personal beliefs, respecting bodily autonomy and consent
- Accepting responsibility for self, acknowledging past use of violence, admitting being wrong, communicating openly and truthfully
