The movement for immigrant justice encompasses many issues beyond Latinx immigration at the border. We’ve gathered this list of immigrant justice organizations to offer a broader look at immigration as it affects African, Caribbean, and Southeast Asian immigrants, as well as transgender and gender-nonconforming immigrants. This list is certainly not exhaustive of all immigrant justice organizations but is meant to be starting point for you to learn and share with your community about issues facing immigrants broadly. We encourage you to seek out additional information and build connections with local immigrant justice organizations.

Black Alliance for Just Immigration

There are approximately 21 million immigrant women living in the United States, of which an estimated 1.7 million (8.2 percent) are Black. Black immigrant women and girls come from diverse regions of the world but primarily originate from African and Caribbean countries, with Jamaica, Haiti, and Nigeria among the leading places of origin for Black immigrants overall. The Black Alliance for Just Immigration (BAJI) works at the state and national level to educate and engage African-American and Black immigrant communities to organize and advocate for racial, social, and economic justice. Their report, Black Immigrant Women and Girls in the U.S., provides an overview of the state of Black immigrant women and girls in the U.S. Also see their report, Black Lives at the Border, which offers an overview of the experience of Black immigrants.

UndocuBlack

The UndocuBlack Network (UBN) is a multigenerational network of currently and formerly undocumented Black people that fosters community, facilitates access resources, and contributes to transforming the realities of undocumented Black people, so they are thriving and living their fullest lives. UBN is currently building their network of local chapters and have launched a mental wellness initiative to underscore and address the trauma that undocumented Black people experience. They offer a Guide for Mental Wellness Specialists highlighting experiences of Black undocumented community members in mental health care and offer insight and direction to mental health providers on considerations while engaging their Black undocumented community members as clients.
National Immigration Project

The National Immigration Project of the National Lawyers Guild (NIPNLG) is a national non-profit organization that provides technical assistance and support to community-based immigrant organizations, legal practitioners, and all advocates seeking and working to advance the rights of noncitizens. Their South Asian Solidarity Toolkit is a resource for individuals, families, and advocates in the Southeast Asian American (SEAA) community who want to learn how to organize a dynamic campaign to fight detention and deportation. They also offer “Know Your Rights” guidance in English and Spanish.

Transgender Law Center

The Transgender Law Center (TLC) is the largest national trans-led organization advocating self-determination for all people. TLC offers extensive legal resources for transgender and gender-nonconforming immigrants, in both English and Spanish, including a guide to Know Your Rights as a TGNC Immigrant, how to apply for asylum based on gender identity persecution, and a report on Human Rights Conditions of Transgender Women in Mexico.

Mariposas Sin Fronteras

Mariposas Sin Fronteras is a Tucson, Arizona based group that seeks to end the systemic violence and abuse of LGBTQ+ people held in prison and immigration detention. Their leadership consists largely of LGBTQ+ immigrants, many of whom have been detained. Due to the high rate of systemic abuse and discrimination towards LGBTQ+ detainees, support and solidarity are critical to ending the plight LGBTQ+ prisoners face in immigration detention.

Council on American Islamic Relations

The mission of the Council on American Islamic relations (CAIR) is to enhance understanding of Islam, protect civil rights, promote justice, and empower American Muslims. They have an extensive Know Your Rights guide and have been working for the last two years to fight against the Muslim ban.
